Communifire is a Single Tenant Architecture, meaning you get your own instance of Communifire, separate from other customer sites. Your files and databases are separate. You are also on a stable version which works best for your company.

Every year, we release a major version of Communifire and throughout the year, we release service releases which fix small bugs found after launching new versions. Check out our Release Notes to learn about major features added in each version. For a full list of fixes and new features, visit New Enhancements .
